

A Cool Incentive: The North Pole Adventure

Introduction

After a long and successful year, the owner of Fantastica – a growing mid-sized IT company – decided to reward his exhausted executive managers with a special summer vacation. He asked the HR Manager to find a unique, relaxing, and affordable destination. After exploring several options and consulting multiple travel agencies, she finally found an unexpected choice – the North Pole!

Why the North Pole?

- Offers a unique experience unlike regular luxury destinations.
- Focuses on nature, peace, and adventure instead of hotels and malls.
- Provides an opportunity for managers to escape routine and recharge.
- Combines calmness, simplicity, and excitement in one destination.

The Unique Experience

- Untouched, breathtaking natural beauty with endless ice fields.
- Chance to witness the midnight sun phenomenon.
- Encounters with polar bears, rabbits, and arctic foxes.
- Absence of urban noise and tall buildings encourages relaxation.
- Helps people “keep a cool head” and relieve stress.

Cost and Budget

- Airfare: ~€500 per person (vs. €300 for regular European trips).
- Accommodation & meals: €30 per person/day (vs. €180 usual cost).
- Trip duration: 5 days for 20 managers.

- Result: Significant total savings despite higher airfare.
- Combines excitement and economy – an affordable yet special reward.

Activities and Adventure

- Adventure options:
 - Dog-sleigh races.
 - Ice sculpting.
 - Ice-hole fishing.
- Relaxation options:
 - Peaceful long walks.
 - Icefloe jumping is a fun physical challenge.
- Perfect mix of relaxation and excitement to rejuvenate the team after a stressful year.